

Tara Bouman - CV

clarinet, bass clarinet

Tara Bouman studied classical clarinet in the Netherlands and has performed concerts all over Europe, Chile, Mexico and the United States of America - initially in the field of so called contemporary music, until in her collaboration with Markus Stockhausen she was encouraged to improvise. Since then her focus has been in playing "intuitive music".

In cooperation with Deutschland Radio the Cologne Label Aktivraum published her first CD in 2003: CONTEMPORARY. In 2002 she started collaboration with Markus Stockhausen (trumpet, flugelhorn) in the duo "Moving Sounds" and in 2004 the CD THINKING ABOUT was released, followed by RITUAL from the year 2015. Other CD releases she participated in are SYMPHONIC COLOURS and SPACES AND SPHERES in 2009, and ETERNAL VOYAGE in 2010. is the latest publication by Moving Sounds.

Tara Bouman enjoys to perform in beautifully sounding, voluminous halls, where the sounds of wind and brass can unfold at its best. Her music is without label - her intention is to play music that is pure, music which touches the soul. The music unfolds and develops in the very moment of its performance. This way it is connected with the place it is played and the people present.

Tara also is a teacher of Iyengar Yoga.
